

In the rush of the kiwifruit harvest you need reliable partners...

10 am in the packhouse.

The grading machines are roaring.
Ships are waiting, you can't afford
power troubles.

Southern Kiwi's 18-plus packhouses and 16 coolstores use enough power to keep a thousand homes lit up for a year.

So TrustPower's installed special equipment to keep Southern Kiwi's graders rolling, without interruption.

And it's worked out a tailored Partnership Plan for the company to get the service it deserves and power
at the best possible rates.

A joint team's been formed to look at energy efficiency. And TrustPower is on call 24 hours a day. When you want to get in excess of 14 million trays
of kiwifruit to the market, you need reliable friends and partners.
